U.S. ADVISES ITS CITIZENS IN FAR EAST TO RETURN

Action Described as Part of Precautionary Policy

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—The British ambassador, Lord Lothian, asserted after a White House call today that his government had ordered him to cancel plans to return to England because "they think there may be a crisis in the Far East." The ambassador declined to go into details of his conference with President Roosevelt, but left the clear impression they had discussed Far Eastern matters. Asked how soon the British government thought a Far East crisis might develop, Lord Lothian said it might come through the reopening of the Burma road, a supply line to China.

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—The government today advised American citizens in the far east, especially women and children, to consider the advisability of returning to the United States because of disturbed conditions in that area.

State department officials said that American consuls in Japan, China and other parts of the orient had been notified to suggest to American citizens the advisability of utilizing transportation facilities now available.

This was described as a continuation of the precautionary policy of the government regarding safety of American citizens in various parts of the world.

The advice was directed especially to women and children and men not detained by essential or urgent considerations.

American consuls were instructed to notify the State Department of the number of Americans who are coming out or are considering coming out.

There are approximately 9,000 white Americans in the affected zones, plus some 2,000 Chinese-Americans and Japanese-Americans.

It was believed possible some extra ships might be diverted to facilitate the removal, as all ships now available have been booked for some time in advance.

The instructions were not announced publicly in the orient. They were expected to be passed along quietly to American communities so as to avoid any unnecessary alarm.

"Democrats for Willkie" Headquarters Opened

With the establishment on Monday of the "Democrats-for-Willkie" publicity headquarters of central Pennsylvania at 307-308 Ebner building, Harrisburg, plans were further advanced for challenging the third-term-for President and other New Deal issues by supporting Wendell L. Willkie for President.

Pennsylvania has been divided into three regions for more conveniently telling the "Democrats-for-Willkie" story. The central area comprises seventeen counties, including Adams, Dauphin, Tioga, Potter, Clinton, Lycoming, Centre, Union, Mifflin, Snyder, Juniata, Perry, Huntingdon, Cumberland, Fulton, Franklin and York counties.

Martin Keet, a former Harrisburg newspaperman, is publicity director in charge of the newly opened headquarters. He is a brother of Wayne M. Keet, proprietor of the James Gettys hotel, Chambersburg street.

B. and P. Club Rehearses "Powder-Puff Minstrel"

The members of the local Business and Professional Women's club held their first rehearsal last week for a "Powder-Puff Minstrel" to be presented at the Odd Fellows hall on center square in the First National bank building on Monday, October 21.

Mrs. Guyon Buehler has been selected as interlocutor for the show with Miss Marie Walker, Miss Lucille Thomas, Miss Myrle Stauffer and Miss Roberta Bittinger acting as end women.

Mrs. Jennings Collins is the directress.

APPLY FOR LICENSES

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Eversole, Fairfield, announce the birth of a daughter at the Warner hospital, Monday afternoon.

Bulletin

Rome, Oct. 8 (AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia warned the United States today that Germany, Italy and Japan were ready to go to war with the United States if America rejected the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis' mutual "living space" offers and preferred instead to "throw down the gantlet."

County Divided Into 5 Sections by Cooperative

On Monday afternoon the Adams Electric Cooperative, Inc., filed with the Pennsylvania Utilities commission a pre-emption map of Adams county showing shaded areas in every township from which public utilities are barred from beginning new lines or extending their system for a period of from six months to a year.

In the shaded areas the cooperative claims it has a majority of the prospective electric service customers already enrolled as members.

The map is divided into five sections, covering every township in the county, and is drawn on a scale of two inches to the mile. The proposed routes for the power lines which the cooperative expects to build are shown together with "cross-hatched" or shaded areas along each side of the line routes.

In accordance with rules of the P. U. C. five copies of the original plans were placed on file at Harrisburg, while other copies have been delivered to the public utility companies operating in or near the shaded areas.

700 Members

The future power line routes shown on the maps are designed to serve the more than 700 members of the co-operative in all sections of the county. Several hundred additional prospective customers, who have not yet signed service applications, reside along or close to the power line routes, co-operative officers said.

The co-operative has acted under provisions of an act of the 1937 legislature to protect its territory. The law invoked provides that if an electric co-operative association, organized on a non-profit basis, files with P.U.C. a map of the territory to be served by the co-operative, no public utility shall begin the construction or installation of any extension or addition to its existing system for six months from the date of the filing of the maps.

The same law provides that if the co-operative enters into a loan agreement with the R.F.C. for financing such a system then the prohibition against the utilities shall extend for one year after the loan grant.

The application of the Adams Electric Cooperative is on file in Washington, D. C., with the Rural Electrification administration. Favorable action on a loan grant is expected daily.

Cecil Dunbar, co-operative president; Clarence C. Smith, manager of the county program, and Daniel E. Teeter, Esq., attorney for the co-operative, visited the R.F.C. offices in Washington last Friday and were assured quick action on the county project.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)——Stocks jogged over a slightly irregularly lower trail in today's market. The list was hesitant at the start, but selling was never insistent. Half-hearted attempts at rallies generally failed to follow through. While scattered plus signs were in evidence near mid-day, small declines were widely distributed.

TRUCKS STALL IN ROAD

After four trucks stalled Monday night in the mud on the Fairfield road just west of town where the state Highway department construction work is underway, the section between Seminary ridge and Reynolds avenue had to be barricaded. It was opened to traffic again this morning.

R. R. ENGINEER DIES

Harrisburg, Oct. 8 (AP)—Franklin J. Hunsicker, 55, a Reading railroad engineer, was found dead today in the cab of his locomotive in the Harrisburg yards. Coroner Earl H. Grim attributed his death to a heart attack.

ENGLAND WILL RE-OPEN BURMA ROAD ON OCT. 17

Churchill Gives Warning to Japan Over Military Pact

London, Oct. 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told commons today that the Burma road would be opened October 17 on expiration of Britain's agreement with Japan and declared that the "errors" of the attack on Dakar "have been made the subject of disciplinary action."

As he spoke the distant battle noises of the German air attack on London echoed faintly in the historic hall.

He flung out a warning to Japan, newly allied with Italy and Germany, in a new military alliance, declaring that as long as the United States and British fleets are on the seas, Japan can have no hope of help from her new allies.

"They (the fleets) will be," chorused several members.

The prime minister declared flatly that the three-way axis pact "binds Japan to attack the United States if the United States comes into the war," hinted it contained secret clauses and then cried defiantly:

"Neither of the branches of the English-speaking race is accustomed to react to threats of violence by submission."

He added:

"Long, dark months of trial and tribulation lie before us. Not only great dangers but many more misfortunes, many shortcomings, many mistakes, many disappointments, will surely be our lot. Death and sorrow will be the companions of our journey; hardship our garment; constancy and valour our only shield."

Disciplinary Action

The British-supported attempt September 23 by General Charles De Gaulle's "free French" forces to take over Dakar, in French West Africa, he went on, resulted in a "series of accidents and some errors which have been made the subject of disciplinary action, or now are subject to formal inquiries."

Neither the first sea lord nor the inner war cabinet, he said, were informed of the approach of French warships which sailed unmolested through the strait of Gibraltar until it was too late to stop them.

Casualties from the incessant German massed air attacks on Britain are diminishing week by week, he said. Since September 7, however, the bombing and machine-gunning attacks have cost Britain 8,500 lives and 13,000 wounded, he said.

Gallery Almost Empty

Churchill explained that the step taken to enable Japan to compose her differences with China had no further meaning now that Japan, instead, had entered into a triple alliance with Germany and Italy.

This alliance he called openly a revival of the anti-comintern pact.

His review of the war, made quietly to a house packed with members but almost empty of galleryites because of the secrecy of parliamentary sessions these days, was general.

He made it with quiet fervor which never faltered despite guns and sirens often loudly interrupting.

Churchill suggested that the Dakar incident could easily be expanded out of all proportion and confessed there had been both negligence and error in the passage of French ships through Gibraltar to the French West Africa port.

He bespoke confidence in the judgement of General De Gaulle that Dakarites had been friends of free France until the arrival of those ships altered the situation. He gave assurance that sterner action against the enemy would follow that incident.

Murmurs of approval greeted his statement that the effect of the blitzkrieg had been far less damaging than some had feared, that Britain is stronger than she was three months ago, that her vital forces are more numerous rather than depleted.

The prime minister emphasized Britain's present desire to see Spain win back prosperity after the civil war. All Britain seeks, he said, is assurance that Spain shall not become an avenue of supply for Britain's enemies.

To that end measures of blockade will always be carefully examined on Spain's behalf, he said.

Cites Sustained Attack

Germany has sent over nearly 400 long-range bombers on an average every 24 hours since September 7, Churchill declared, doubting whether such sustained attack could be greatly enlarged by the luftwaffe.

Italy, he said, has experiences ahead of her not foreseen when she declared war.

As for reprisals on the German population, Churchill said "our object must be to inflict the maximum harm upon the war-making ca-

TOWN WILL BE DECORATED FOR FARMERS' DAY

Council Grants Request for October 17 Event

Acting in response to a letter received from Mares Sherman, chairman of arrangements for Farmers' Day which is being sponsored by the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce, the borough council Monday evening ordered center square and the first blocks of the four main streets decorated for Thursday, October 17.

Council ordered that flags be placed on the light standards in center square and the first blocks of the four streets and also directed that the entrances to the square be decorated with the across-the-street flags and welcome banners.

Additional prizes for Farmers' Day follow:

Adams-York Electrical league (displayed in Chamber of Commerce office, Kadel building)—For the best jar of cherries, any variety, first prize, model 2H09 Telechron electric kitchen clock, retail value $4.95, and second prize, model 2H07 Telechron electric kitchen clock, retail value $3.50.

Brehm, the tailor—Best stalk of celery, $2 in cash, and for the largest stalk of celery, $2 in cash.

Supplies Received for Service Act Registration

All instruction forms and supplies have been received at the county commissioners' office for use next Wednesday in the registration of countians under the Selective Service act.

Chief Clerk C. Arthur Brame is busy sorting the supplies and dividing the forms into bundles to be mailed soon to the judges of election in each of the voting districts.

Only the election boards in Arendtsville, Straban township, Hamilton township, the second district of Hamiltonban township and Conewago township have not yet replied to the county commissioners' recent letter asking that their services be volunteered. All others boards have replied favorably.

Red Cross to Receive Sale Articles, Thursday

The former Citizens' Trust company building, Baltimore street, in which the Adams county chapter of the Red Cross will hold a rummage sale on Friday and Saturday, will be open on Thursday afternoon to receive articles for sale, it was announced today by Mrs. Florence Grinder, sale chairman.

The sale is being conducted for the purpose of raising funds with which to continue the production of clothing for war refugees. It is a county-wide effort and a general call has been issued for clothing, household utensils, books, bric-a-brac and other salable articles.

71 P.C. of Pacific Coast Population "Unchurched," Lutherans Told

Omaha, Oct. 8 (AP)—J. Milton Deck, of Philadelphia, was re-named president and all other officers were unanimously re-elected by the United Lutheran Church Brotherhood today.

Getting another term were:

Lawrence F. Speckman, Louisville, first vice president; Erwin H. List, Chicago, second vice president; Glenn R. Edgar, third vice president; O. Roy Frankenfield, Philadelphia, secretary; Harry A. Fritsch, Allentown, Pa., treasurer; Earle W. Bader, Bethlehem, Pa., executive secretary, and the Rev. Amos John Traver, Frederick, Maryland, editor of "Lutheran Men."

New members of the executive committee selected were William F. Kedde, of Omaha, president of the Nebraska Synodical Brotherhood, and Martin A. McGrory, of Washington.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 8 (AP)—Dr. O. M. Norlie, psychology professor at Luther college, Decoral, Iowa, said today that in the Pacific coast area 71 per cent of the population is "unchurched, and 92 per cent of the Lutheran stock among the residents is unchurched."

He is organizer and president emeritus of the Association of Lutheran Statisticians, meeting in conjunction with the 12th biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church of America Brotherhood.

Conducting of church "schools" to enable the clergy and laymen alike to write acceptable informative copy for the press was urged before the Brotherhood by the Rev. Charles K. Fegley of Weehawken, New Jersey, press room director for the Brotherhood and United Lutheran Church of America conventions, the latter opening Wednesday for a week-long session.

Better Things Coming

The war will "clear the way for better things," J. Milton Deck, of Philadelphia, president of the Brotherhood told 300 delegates and visitors to the annual convention here Monday.

"The taproot of war lies in covetousness," he declared, "the great greed of men who seek to enrich themselves or their countries at the expense of other nations.

"The present war could not have come, had not God permitted it, and he would not have permitted such catastrophe without some wise purpose. National boundary lines have been obliterated, nations have been engulfed, peoples have been enslaved, things temporal have been mightily shaken . . . so the upheaval that threatens to shake the world from center to circumference will, when God's purpose is fulfilled, clear the way for better things."

Deck and Executive Secretary Earl W. Bader, of Bethlehem, Pa., reported there are 1821 congregational men's groups in the Brotherhood with a membership of 56,573. In the last two years three new Brotherhoods were formed in Michigan, Iowa and California.

Lutheran Society Shows Membership Increase

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 8 (AP)—Membership in the Women's Missionary society of the United Lutheran Church in America has increased 6½ per cent in the last three years, Miss Nono M. Diehl, executive secretary, reported today.

Miss Diehl, of Philadelphia, Pa., presented the administrative report to the society's 11th convention in session here. Active membership now totals 63,833, she said. Without going into detail, she said that missionaries salaries cut because of the depression have been restored in the three-year period and that pay of native workers in foreign fields also has been increased.

Mrs. O. A. Sardeson, of New York, the newly-elected president, introduced 27 foreign missionaries and missionaries under appointment who are here.

Mrs. Oscar C. Schmidt, of Philadelphia, re-elected vice president, introduced the nine home missionaries present.

SPORTSMEN TO HOLD MEETING ON DOE ISSUE

Countians to Convene Here Friday Evening

A mass meeting of Adams county sportsmen has been called for the court house Friday evening at 7 o'clock by the Adams County Fish and Game commission with the "future of the deer herds in Adams county at stake."

Officers of the association declared today that it is up to the Adams countians who bought hunting licenses last year to decide whether the slaughter of doe and other antlerless deer shall be permitted in this county in December. If the decision of the state Game commission, by which antlerless deer may be taken during the deer season, is allowed to stand, many hunters believe deer hunting in Adams county will be at an end for at least 10 years.

Recent state legislation makes it possible for hunters to close the season for any deer but antlered bucks by petitioning the state Game commission. If more than half of the licensed hunters sign the petitions, law requires the commission to heed their wishes.

Petitions have been in circulation for weeks and must be filed at Harrisburg by November 3. Many additional signatures are needed, association officers reported.

President John Fidler, Biglerville, will preside.

MARYLANDER PLEADS GUILTY

Addison F. Mikesell, Westminster R. 1, entered a plea of guilty to a drunken driving charge at a hearing Monday evening before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder. In default of $500 bail he was returned to the county jail for court. Mikesell was arrested by a state motor policeman from the Gettysburg substation after he had ditched his car along the Littlestown-Hanover road last Thursday evening.

OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY LEGIONNAIRES

Roy A. Alexander Is Commander; Delegates Named

COMMANDER R. A. ALEXANDER

Officers to serve the Albert J. Lentz post, No. 202, of the American Legion for the next year, who were elected two weeks ago, were installed at a regular post meeting Monday evening by District Commander James Heffernan, York. About 45 Legionnaires attended with retiring Commander Lawrence M. Sheads presiding until the installation took place.

Roy A. Alexander became the new commander and these other officials were inducted into their positions: First vice commander, Elmer J. Dillman; second vice commander, Joseph Smith; adjutant, Edgar A. Moser; finance officer, Paul L. Spangler; chaplain, Howard Strausbaugh; historian, Frank J. Slonaker; sergeant-at-arms, Vincent Florence, and trustee, William Timmins.

Appoints Service Officer

Commander Alexander announced the appointment of Frank J. Slonaker as post service officer. He also named delegates and alternates to represent the post on the twenty-second district council. Past Commanders Horace E. Smiley and Sheads and Adjutant Moser were named as the delegates with Past Commander Howard Sheffer, Robert Felix and Leon Altland designated as the alternates.

An Americanism committee was named by the new commander and was directed to take charge of the program for Armistice Day. The group is headed by Adjutant Moser and includes James R. McConaghie, L. C. Keefauver, Howard Sheffer and John P. Butt, Esq.

Annual Reports Given

Annual reports were presented by Paul Spangler, treasurer of the house committee; Albert Cardenti, retiring finance officer, and George W. Boehner, chairman of the Junior Legion committee. A report on the last district meeting at York was given by Horace Smiley.

The post went on record as favoring attendance by their officers at a conference of Legion post officials at Harrisburg on November 17.

The Lentz post has made available to the community 14 pairs of crutches of various sizes which may be secured from the steward at the post home on Baltimore street. The crutches were purchased by Morris Gitlin after being secured through H. D. Crouse, both members of the post.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Hospital Report

Mrs. Richard W. Eversole, Fairfield, has been admitted as a patient. Those discharged were Mrs. Thurston Bucher and infant son, Michael, Aspers; Mrs. Leonard Redding and infant son, C. Richard, West Middle street; Mrs. Joseph Mumper, Hanover street; John Brewer and Miriam and Anna Bigham, all of Fairfield; Edward Warren, Arendtsville; Mrs. Barton Foth, Aspers, and Calvin Roth, Baltimore street.

9 Small Girls Die in Kentucky Mission Fire

Jackson, Ky., Oct. 8 (AP).—Nine small girls were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed a frame dormitory building at a mission school in a remote section of Breathitt county.

Twelve other little girls and six teachers at the mission which cares for orphan children in this eastern Kentucky mountain area escaped from the second floor of the building where they were sleeping.

One of the teachers, Miss Dessie Scott, 24, of Washington, Pa., was so badly burned helping rescue the children that Dr. Frank Sewell, Breathitt county health officer, said she was not expected to live.

Fred Puchee, 71, who with his wife operated the mission, also suffered serious burns.

The mission, located at Little, Ky., a community on the Louisville and Nashville railroad about 15 miles south, is supported by voluntary contributions.

APPLE MARKET AFFECTED BY EUROPEAN WAR

Senator Rice Tells Lions Export Sales Are Lacking

Complete disappearance of a European export market, which annually took a large part of the commercial apples grown in Adams county, will have an important effect on the apple market here this year, State Senator John S. Rice told fellow members of the Gettysburg Lions club at the weekly meeting Monday evening.

The war is the single unfortunate factor this year in what would normally be a good year for the apple growers of Pennsylvania, he said. The state crop is a little higher than average; the apple crop in England is the lightest in years, and the same is true in Nova Scotia, a competitor of the United States for English apple markets. In spite of the war Senator Rice predicted that apple growers in Adams county will net as much or possibly a little more from their 1940 crop than from that of last year, although the latter was larger.

16 Leading Varieties

The speaker traced the history of the apple from its first mention in the Garden of Eden up to the present, pointing out that there are now 16 leading varieties of apples produced in the United States. He told how several of the best known varieties were developed until the average yield per year in the United States during the last five years grew to 121,000,000 bushels with Pennsylvania and Virginia tied for the title of being the third largest producing state. Washington and New York states lead the list, he said.

Speaking of the importance of the export market to apple growers in this country, Senator Rice stated that large amounts of fruit have been shipped annually to England, the Scandinavian countries, France and, until the last five or six years, to Germany. The export volume swelled to 20,000,000 bushels in the late 20's, he reported, and then dwindled to about 2,500,000 last year. The only fruit being exported this year goes to South America and that moves in small quantity.

He told the Lions that Adams county's 513,000 apple trees produce annually about a fifth of the state's crop of apples and put Adams county in first place in the production of apples in Pennsylvania. County fruit goes as far south as Florida, west to St. Louis, St. Paul and Chicago and north to the New England states, he said.

Apple Juice Popularity Grows

A new development in the apple industry that holds promise of increasing the demand for apples and thereby helping the price, Senator Rice said, is the canning of apple juice or cider and a plan to make apple juice available at drug stores just as orange juice is today.

Twenty-nine Lions attended the meeting which was presided overy by President Henry T. Bream.

At a meeting of the board of directors following the general club session, Lion William A. Beales was elected third vice president of the club to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Radford Lippy, which was accepted with regret by the board.

Next week the Lions will make their annual trip to the Hoffman orphanage for their dinner meeting.

SPECIAL STAMPS ON SALE

Postmaster C. A. Williams placed on sale at the local postoffice this morning 10,500 stamps in each of two new issues just released in the new series honoring American inventors. The one-cent stamp bears a likeness of Eli Whitney, while the two-cent issue honors Samuel F. B. Morse.

STEINWEHR AVE. RESIDENTS ASK ANNEXATION

Council Receives Report on Traffic Survey

The Gettysburg borough council at its October meeting on Monday evening took under consideration or acted in at least five important matters.

Council received a preliminary report of a traffic survey, made at the request of the borough safety committee, in which the erection of traffic lights in center square and at one street intersection not now protected by lights was recommended and the need for lights at two other street intersections was listed as doubtful. A full report for action by council in November was promised.

Council received a petition from residents of Steinwehr avenue extended asking that a section of Cumberland township be annexed to the borough. The petition was turned over to the ordinance committee.

Action was deferred on a suggestion that a second night police officer be employed.

For the first time insurance against property damage was ordered carried on the borough's four fire engines.

All Members Present

An ordinance annexing one acre of Cumberland township, east of the Harrisburg road and at the end of East Lincoln avenue was formally adopted.

All of the members of council attended the session with President Ray M. Hoffman presiding.

Clyde D. Berger, chairman of the borough safety committee, presented the preliminary report on the borough traffic survey conducted recently by the state Highway department. Mr. Berger said the count in center square last Thursday afternoon showed 1,400 cars passed through the square in a four-hour period.

On the basis of the survey, a complete report on which is to be in the hands of council for the November meeting, traffic lights are recommended at the intersections now protected and at Chambersburg and Washington streets; the four center square crossings and "possibly" at York and Stratton streets. The York-Liberty-Hanover street intersection was described as not needing a traffic light while West Middle and South Washington streets do not need a light at their intersection to handle traffic, although it might be beneficial in reducing accidents, the report found.

Cost Estimated

Estimated cost of the installation of lights at these intersections which will comply with state regulations to go into effect next year was placed at $2,850 including center square. Council took no action pending receipt of a complete, written report in November.

The Rev. Dr. Ludwig C. Mortensen apeared before council with a petition asking that four properties along the east side of Steinwehr avenue be added to the borough and indicated later that there are other property owners along that street who would like to be taken into the town limits.

Properties covered in the paper turned over to the ordinance committee for investigation included those of O. B. Sharrets, Samuel Weikert lot, Doctor Mortensen, and the C. L. Butt service station and dwelling.

Among matters brought before council by Burgess C. A. Heiges was a report of "complaints" laid before him by citizens of the town who held it to be "unfair" to the night police officer to have one man on duty alone since the shooting and beating of Officer Culp. One councilman observed that if two men should be put on duty at night they would not be expected to ride together on patrols of the town but would be expected to cover two sections at the same time so that the fact a second man would be on duty could not prevent a repitiition of the Culp incident. Council agreed it was "not ready" to act in that matter.

Later, however, the borough fathers did approve the use of a fourth officer for handling traffic on Saturday evenings. That plan has been followed recently. The pay of Horace L. Bender was fixed at $100 per month while he is on regular duty in the place of Officer Culp. Bender also is engine house janitor and is continuing with that work in connection with his police duties.

The need for property damage protection on the four pieces of fire fighting apparatus used in Gettysburg was brought to the attention of council by Councilman H. M. Oyler and he was directed to take out that new protection.

The ordinance adding a one-acre plot along the Harrisburg road to the borough, which was approved Monday evening, had been asked last month by Joseph E. Codori, co-owner of a large tract recently bought from the Winter estate for real estate development.

Financial Report

The monthly report of Treasurer Fred G. Pfeffer showed all notes paid off in the special fund with the retirement of $4.000 during the last month. There is a balance of $1,032.34 in the fund now. The only temporary loans outstanding against the borough are two totaling $5,000 against the general fund which contains a balance of $2,900.79. General expenses last month totaled $3,183.72 while receipts amounted to $6,084.51 including $4,200 secured from the tax collector.

Council, in response to a request from the Chamber of Commerce, agreed to pay for the electric current to be used by street Christmas decorations to be put up by the C. of C. about November 25.

Re-painting of traffic lines in the town was ordered. The highway committee was ordered to inspect and act on a report that poor drainage under drive-ins at the Shell service station on Buford avenue has resulted in flooding of the street and nearby properties during heavy rains. A pavement was reported in need of repair at York and Stratton streets and the alley south of East Middle street and east of the engine house was reported in bad repair. Mrs. N. L. Minter appeared before council about a notice to lay a pavement and curb in front of South Stratton street properties. Council said their intention was that only the curb be placed and rescinded the order on the pavement.

Burgess Gives Report

Radford H. Lippy appeared before council to ask a permit to move a frame garage at the rear of his Chambersburg street property south 15 feet from the alley line where it now stands. The borough solicitor and engineer were directed to confer on the request. The General State Authority is engaged in correcting conditions at the armory drive entrance on Ridge avenue, council heard. A complaint was received and notice ordered on weeds in need of cutting at the rear of properties on Buford avenue. A resolution was adopted ordering a street light on Howard between Howard and Springs avenue and West Middle street.

The monthly report of Burgess C. A. Heiges was received showing collections of $23 in building permits, $9 for digging permits, $1.50 for sewer permits, $11 for guides' licenses, $410.28 from theatre tax, $4.50 for roller hire, $15 for garbage permits and $11 from fines. A request for sewer service to the new garage being erected on Queen street by Richard Duttera was received.

CRASH ON HANOVER ROAD

No one was injured when two cars collided Monday evening about 7:15 o'clock on the Hanover road, a mile east of here. Officer R. L. Dunham of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police investigated. He has not filed any charges. The cars involved were operated by Glenn L. Gulden, 21, 242 East Middle street, Gettysburg, and Warren I. Hemler, 33, 327 Main street, McSherrystown. Both cars are reported to have been driving east with Hemler following the local car. Blinding lights of a westbound truck in the fog confused the drivers. Gulden slowed and Hemler hit the rear of his machine. Damage amounted to about $49.

COUNTIAN ARRESTED

Roy E. Warren, Fairfield R. 1, was arrested Saturday night on charges of driving while under the influence of liquor and reckless driving following an accident near Sabillasville, Maryland. He was held under $1,000 bail for hearing before Magistrate William J. Stoner, Thurmont. Walter C. Harbaugh, Fairfield R. 1, who was riding with Warren, sustained lacerations of the face and ears. The Warren machine struck the parked car of John M. Brown, Waynesboro, headon.

SENTENCED IN YORK

Donald Smith, New Oxford, was sentenced to 10 days in the York county jail on Monday following his arrest on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Wedding

Topper—Bemiller

Miss Evelyn Dorothy Bemiller, Philadelphia, and Hugh E. Topper, Jr., Bridgeport, Connecticut, were united in marriage at a ceremony performed Saturday morning in St. Rita's church, Philadelphia, by the bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. Sylvester Martin, O.S.A. The couple was attended by Miss Agnes Boyle, Philadelphia, and T. Earl Ross, Flushing, Long Island.

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bemiller, of Philadelphia, for the immediate families. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Annie Bemiller, Hanover, and has been a trained nurse in the Hahnemann hospital. Mr. Topper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Topper, McSherrystown. He is associated with the American Aluminum company at Bridgeport.

Seek Vaccination Data About County Children

Adams county school teachers have received from the office of Ira Y. Baker, county superintendent of schools, copies of a letter distributed from the bureau of health conservation at Harrisburg, asking a list of all school children in the county who are eligible for the immune vaccination test together with the age, grade, school, address, name of parent or guardian and a statement of the number of times the pupil was vaccinated. After the state secures this information arrangements will be made for the tests.

Department of health regulations provide that if two or more vaccination attempts have failed for any pupil, the Department of Health may issue a certificate of immunity after re-vaccination by an agent of the department had produced characteristics of immunity. That certificate will relieve the child from the necessity of further attempts at successful vaccination.

The superintendent's office reminds the teachers their school registers should carry the date of successful vaccination of each pupil.

Rotarians Give Talks On Club's Principles

Three members of the Gettysburg Rotary club addressed their fellow clubmen Monday evening on the principles of the organization. The speakers were Frederic E. Griest, Samuel G. Spangler and J. I. Burgoon. Eugene V. Bulleit, Esq., was in charge of the program. The meeting was held in the Y.W.C.A. building, center square.

The local club members are planning to attend the 20th anniversary celebration of the Waynesboro Rotarians on Tuesday, October 22. Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, will be the speaker. His topic will be "Ships of Wood and Men of Steel."

1940 Corn Crop Is Smallest in 4 Years

Chicago, Oct. 8 (AP)—Bangboards were rattling again in the broad corn belt today as farmers harvested the 1940 crop, smallest in four years but worth more on a government loan supported market than any crop since 1937.

Although picking and husking will not reach a climax for several days, mechanical equipment and brawny men aready were at work piling new corn on a record-breaking carryover accumulated during the last four seasons. Cribs, silos, bins and steel tanks throughout the belt now hold corn grown in 1937, 1938, 1939 and 1940.

The new crop does not compare in size or quality with its recent predecessors, grain men said. As a result, the total domestic supply, including carryover of around 600,000,000 bushels, is expected to be about 300,000,000 smaller than last year.

However, the prospective harvest of about 2,300,000,000 bushels, at prices 7 to 8 cents higher in the futures market than a year ago, would have a market value of around $1,350,000,000, compared with a valuation at this time last year of $1,300,000,000 for the 2,619,000,00 bushel 1939 crop.

TWO EXHAUSTED TEAMS PLAY 7TH GAME OF SERIES

Walters Blanks Detroit to Gain Win for Reds

BY GAYLE TALBOT

Cincinnati, Oct. 8 (AP)—Two exhausted teams brought out their last tired pitching resources today for the seventh and deciding struggle of the 1940 World series at Crosley field.

For the Detroit Tigers it promised to be Buck Newsom, whose seemingly bottomless store of heart and strength already had carried him to two victories in the series. If asked by Manager Del Baker to make one more effort, it meant that Newsom was going on the firing line for the second time within 48 hours.

And for the Cincinnati Reds, trying to give the National league its first championship since the St. Louis Cardinals beat Detroit in 1934, it was big Paul Derringer again. Derringer beat the Tigers three days ago in Detroit, so he had one more day's rest than Newsom.

Neither One Rested

But neither veteran had the rest he needed, and it was an open question whether Newsom, in particular, could sustain for one more nine-inning stretch the fire and stamina he had when he pitched "one more for dad" two days ago.

They say that when a pitcher passes the 30-year-line his muscles need a couple of days to get the tiredness out, and then another day to recover from their soreness, and then maybe another day just for good measure. So both Newsom and Derringer will be going against nature in their final tense duel.

Manager Del Baker of the Tigers had one possible alternative to starting his over-worked ace, and some thought he might take it. He had the even more ancient Tommy Bridges, who pitched and won the third game of the series. Tommy is about a once-a-week hurler these days, but Baker could try him just for size, so to speak, and figure on rushing Newsom in there the moment Bridges showed signs of fraying.

Otherwise the two clubs that have been battling evenly for nearly a week go into the deciding game exactly where they started and with the identical line-ups that opposed each other in the first contest last Wednesday.

Wilson Tired

Ernie Lombardi, the Reds' slugging catcher, still was sitting disconsolately on the bench with a sprained ankle, and his replacement, 40-year-old Jimmy Wilson, was aching in every muscle and joint.

Newsom, if he was Baker's candidate, had a chance today to win his third World series victory and equal a record held by only five other pitchers. The others who captured three games in a World series that did not go over seven games were Christy Mathewson, Jack Coombs, Urban Faber, Babe Adams and Stanley Coveleskie. Coveleskie, in 1920, was the last to do it.

This had been a pitchers' World series from the start. Each of the six winning chukkers had gone the route, and not one of them had been seriously extended. Not a game had been really close. When Bucky Walters shut out the Tigers, 4 to 0, yesterday with five scattered hits for his second triumph, he only followed the general pattern.

Schoolboy Rowe for the second time didn't have a thing on the ball. Where it took the Reds over three innings to knock him from the box in the second game of the series, they disposed of him in the first frame yesterday. Four of the first five Cincinnati batters hit safely, and the other sacrificed, bringing in two runs and giving Walters all the lead he needed. Another fine job of relief pitching by John Gorscia of the Tigers was wasted.

The plate umpire, "Red" Ormsby, said he never in his life saw a pitcher with finer control and more stuff than Walters had yesterday. Hank Greenberg didn't get a ball out of the infield all afternoon.

And Walters, just to make his day complete, hit a powerful home run over the left field fence in the eighth inning for his team's final score.

Support for Walters

The Reds' infield, which looked absolutely terrible in the first game of the series and made National league followers sick at heart, improved steadily as the play-off progressed and yesterday made it plain why the team ran away from seven other clubs in its circuit.

Good as was Walters' pitching, his support was even greater. Every time the Tigers looked like making trouble, one or another of the Cincinnati infield came up with a spectacular play to throttle the threat. Eddie Joost made a stop and throw at second base off Bruce Campbell in the seventh inning that ranked with the great outfield catch Jimmy Ripple made in the previous day's game at Detroit.

Bill Werber's play at third base for the Reds has been the finest thing in the series. The Reds had made nine double plays through yesterday's game, and Werber made spectacular stops to start several that were the most vital. He was leading both sides in hitting, too.

Calling the turn on today's tussle demands a great deal of concentration. Derringer vs. Newsom. Two of baseball's greatest pitchers, and both of them tired. Derringer beat the Tigers three days ago, but he was wilder than ever before in his life and had some very anxious moments. Newsom two days ago blanked the Reds with three hits, one of his greatest performances.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Cincinnati, Oct. 8 (AP)—Hero of the series to date is Bill Werber of the Reds—the goat, Schoolboy Rowe . . . The River Downs race track here is bulging with the largest number of steeds since the joint opened in 1925 . . . Jimmy Grippo, the magician (who can pull dough out of a hat, is willing to guarantee Max Baer $20,000 to fight Melio Bettino (but he doesn't say what kind of dough) . . . It may have been the snappy weather, but we're telling you it would have been a cinch to get a seat to yesterday's game as low as $1.50 an hour and a half before the contest started . . . Scalpers took a terrible licking——just as they did in Detroit . . . and it's about time, boys.

Sad, sad story—
In I go and out I go,
And that's the tale of Schoolboy Rowe.

Miami U (near here) has an end named Frank Viupits who takes a 20-mile ride to Middletown every morning to take flying lessons, always making sure he is back for football practice in the afternoon . . . The other day we recorded the Cubs were interested in getting Larry MacPhail to take over the front office job . . . Well, here are the reactions: Phil K. Wrigley: "I haven't anything to say about it. I understand Mr. MacPhail is doing pretty well in Brooklyn" . . . MacPhail: "That is something I cannot talk about" . . . Write your own tickets, gents.

He's the tops—Most ingenious fan we've seen in 25 years of baseball reporting showed up here yesterday—he was a guy who wore eight-foot stilts . . . He leaned over the left field fence and helped himself . . . When a park policeman protested, the guy did absolutely nothing about it, and did it very well . . . He saw the ball game—which is all that counted, at the moment.

What we are all wanting to know is what has Duke got—if anything? . . . This is a hard-fought series and we only wish all you good guys and gals could be here at the ringside . . . A fine thing for baseball, too—people were getting a little tired of the Yankees walking away with everything.

One-minute interview — Charles Bachman, Michigan state coach: "Tom Harmon is the greatest running back I have ever seen in the many years I have been coaching football."

Today's guest star—Nixson Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "Well, Cincinnati isn't a hundred per cent baseball town . . . One of our operatives reports that his next door neighbor was listening to a symphony orchestra Sunday afternoon."

Godoy Wins 10-Round Decision Over Dorazio

Philadelphia, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rugged Arturo Godoy is safely past the first obstacle on the comeback trail that he hopes will lead to a third meeting with heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

The 202-pound senor from Chile, making his first ring appearance since Louis stopped him in June, took a unanimous 10-round decision Monday night from Philadelphia's Gus Dorazio in a slow fight.

It was the first bout Dorazio has lost in his last 12 starts. He weighed 194.

Aggressiveness and harder punching in the clinches won the nod for Godoy. Both elected to fight at close quarters and the crowd of 5,000 who paid a gross of $5,800 spent most of the evening shouting for action.

Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, said he is trying to match the Chilean with Max Baer, Billy Conn or Tony Galento. He has offered Baer $20,000 to fight Godoy in Philadelphia.

As for Godoy he says he is ready to fight Louis or anyone else.

CHALLENGES SECURITY ACT

Harrisburg, Oct 8 (AP)—The validity of Pennsylvania's unemployment compensation act has been challenged by Dr. Crandall's health school, of York, through Attorney H. Eugene Gardner of Glenside. Gardner said the "due process" clause of the federal constitution was violated when the state levied a $129 judgment for payment of taxes.

Media, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP)—When Judge Albert Dutton MacDade became too ill to attend court he summoned the jury to his home. There he delivered an hour's charge. A bus took the jurors back to the courthouse to deliberate.

LOOKING AROUND

What is expected to be the largest crowd of the season will witness the Waynesboro-Gettysburg high football game here Friday evening. Waynesboro, pre-season favorites to cop the Southern Pennsylvania conference title, will bring several hundred fans here accompanied by its big band. The Tornado has swept to three straight victories in impressive style this season and is gunning for another undefeated season. Gettysburg pulled two upsets in turning back Carlisle and Shippensburg and is hoping to pull another against the veteran Engle-men. With the exception of Ray Staley, quarterback, who suffered a minor leg injury Saturday, the Maroon squad is in good condition.

* * *

It looks as though the Gettysburg college Bullets will be called upon to face their stiffest competition in years on the basis of Saturday's results. F. and M. to be played here October 26, amazed the football world by turning back heavily favored Dartmouth 23-21. The Diplomats are boasting of their strongest team in history. Lafayette pulled another upset by turning back New York university 9-7 while Bucknell held the powerful Penn State eleven to a 9-0 score.

* * *

The Gettysburg college soccer team will engage in its third tilt Wednesday afternoon when it meets Navy at Annapolis. Coach Springer's team has lost to Penn State while trimming Bucknell.

* * *

Predictions on probable football winners last week were not so good. Of 25 selections six were wrong and two were ties. This brings the total to 33 correct, nine wrong and three ties.

* * *

County scholastic soccer games listed for Friday are Fairfield at East Berlin and New Oxford at Littlestown.

* * *

Coach "Buzzie" Stover, of Upper Darby, who sent Gettysburg college Harry O'Neill and Ed Hardy as football stars, has contributed another candidate to the frosh squad this year. He is Allen Bishop who plays guard.

Jack Ray, who starred at center and fullback at Lemoyne high school, and whose brother, Dick Ray, plays center for Gettysburg high, is seeking a regular job with the yearlings.

Dog Training Season Extends to March 30

Harrisburg, Oct. 8—The dog training season has opened in Pennsylvania, making it lawful to train dogs on all kinds of small game from sunrise to 9 p. m.

Dogs may be trained on Sunday on all state-owned lands, but permission must be obtained from land owners when Sunday training is desired on privately owned lands. Training season extends to March 30, 1941.

The dog law division of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture warns sportsmen and all dog owners that it is necessary to keep dogs under control while training, and it also is necessary to do this at all times. Special attention should be given young bird dogs because in their eagerness to find birds, they cannot determine the difference between poultry and game birds.

The department advises that dog owners are liable for payment where dogs have caused damage to livestock and poultry. The Department of Agriculture by July 31 had paid 660 dog damage claims amounting to $9,054.

TRIALS AT ORWIGSBURG

The Anthracite Field Trial Association of Schuylkill county, will stage its fall trials on Saturday and Sunday October 19 and 20, on the Faust and Kramer farms, located on route 122, two miles east of Orwigsburg, Pa. The following stakes will be run in order mentioned: Puppy, open derby, open all-age and open shooting dogs. Entry blanks have been mailed to those on record with the clubs as desiring them for each trial. Any dog owner or handler not so accommodated can obtain entry blanks by writing to Jim Lengel, secretary, Orwigsburg, Pa. All entries must be in possession of secretary, not later than 9 p. m., October 18, at which time drawings for the various stakes will take place.

GOOD OLD DAYS

Chambersburg, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP)—Early Wilson college catalogs, dug up for the 70th anniversary celebration Saturday and Sunday, showed that its female student body was "withdrawn as thoroughly as possible from the fascinations of society." Dancing was cause for expulsion; girls who played male roles in dramas wore skirts over their trousers, and even church socials were banned because of the danger of making "chance acquaintances."

Fruits and flowers do not mix well in storage. Apples, for instance, give off small quantities of injurious ethylene.

Littlestown.—Rally day was observed Sunday at Redeemer's Reformed Sunday school. One hundred sixty-seven members and 11 visitors were present. The program opened with group singing of "True Hearted, Whole Hearted." A recitation, "Welcome," by Diane Stambaugh, was followed by the address given by the Rev. Mr. Frehn, pastor of the local Methodist church. This was followed by several selections by the Littlestown Octet after which recitations were given by Allen Shanebrook and Fred Lefevre. "The Sunday School Circle," a pageant in which members of all the various groups took part, followed. A reading by Mrs. John Stambaugh and a recitation by Marie Basehoar concluded the program for the morning.

Private Russell Maitland, of the United States Marines, stationed at Quantico, Virginia, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Maitland, West King street.

Miss Jane Harner, a sophomore at Gettysburg college, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Harner, East King street.

Private Alfred Lippy, of the United States Army stationed at Camp George Meade, Maryland, visited over the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Lippy.

The Misses Bernice and and Mary Elizabeth Bair, Bethesda, Maryland, were at home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bair, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yingling and children, James, Wendell and Charlotte, Hanover, visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William J. Yingling.

The Alumni Association will meet Monday evening at 7:30 at the home of the president, John Byers. All members are urged to be present.

SPECIAL POLICE FORCE

Indiantown Gap, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP)—A special detail of state policemen will be established here soon to serve the big military reservation when it houses a full division of soldiers, Commissioner Lynn G. Adams said today. A sub-station will be created, headquartered in a private residence near the military barracks and also a step from the police force's base where 150 rookies now are going through a six-month training period.

WRITER DIES

Philadelphia, Oct. 8 (AP)—Herman LeRoy Collins, writer for the Philadelphia Inquirer under the name "Girard" died yesterday. He was 75. Born in Hepburn, Lycoming county, he was a graduate of Lafayette college and served as editor of the old Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, managing editor of the Philadelphia Press and a member of the staff of the Public Ledger.

OPENS JAR, BREAKS RIB

Athens, Pa. (AP) — Frank Terry gave a balky fruit jar top a hearty twist. Suddenly it gave way. Terry's arm came down with such force that it broke several ribs.

WILLKIE TALKS IN N.Y. AFTER ROOSEVELT TOUR

GOP Nominee Makes Bid in Democratic Stronghold

(By the Associated Press)

Wendell L. Willkie, holding to his intensive schedule of campaigning, returned to New York today to make a bid for votes in the metropolis which has been a democratic stronghold in recent elections.

The republican nominee's New York trip followed a day of campaigning in New Jersey in which he attacked Jersey City's mayor Frank Hague and accused President Roosevelt of trying to "perpetuate his power through petty Hitlers."

Mr. Roosevelt, meanwhile, was returning to the capital after an inspection of one of Army's biggest arsenals and a 75-mile tour of upstate New York.

The President traveled by special train from his Hyde Park, New York, home yesterday to Watervliet where he saw steel being processed into mammoth guns, but then he drove to the Saratoga battlefield, detouring through Troy. On that part of the trip, and on the way back to Albany, crowds cheered him and he kept his hand aloft almost constantly as he waved to them.

Elsewhere there were these political developments:

Jessie Jones, Secretary of Commerce, made a radio speech for President Roosevelt in which he said that "it has long been my thought that a man coming directly from the business world without experience in public life, regardless of how good a businessman he might be, could not make the best public executive, whether it be in the Presidency or a lesser office."

In Washington, a conference of House republicans adopted a resolution pledging "steadfast allegiance and continuing loyalty" to Willkie.

Senator McKellar (D.-Tenn.) said in the Senate that Willkie favored conscription of manpower but not of industry and declared the republican nominee "thinks more of industry than anything else under the sun except his holding company."

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said in a speech at Springfield, Missouri, that the Roosevelt administration was "incompetent" to deal with national defense.

In Washington, Senator Guffey (D.-Pa.) referred to Willkie's call for the observance of October 23 as "no third term day" and said, "the American people will set aside November 4 (Election day) as 'No Willkie Day.'"

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

RABBITS RAMPANT

Norwood, Mass. — Four rabbits police seized from an errant youngster recently now number nine, and — if the owner doesn't claim them pretty soon he'll need an adding machine to count them since there are other "expectants" in the group.

POOR-BOX TOO POOR

Yarmouth, N. S. — The Rev. William Penny of St. Ambrose Roman Catholic church is "tired of fooling around" with poor-box thieves. So he is installing three small safes in the church. They will be imbedded in concrete.

BOTTLE BOMBARDMENT

Salt Lake City — George C. Mathison claims he and Londoners, in a way, are brothers-under-the bombs. Every night between midnight and 1 a. m., Mathison told police, someone smashes an empty milk bottle against his front door.

YOUR HAT, MISTER

Lexington, Neb. — Dr. A. R. Transue said "goodbye" when his hat blew into a deep canal as he watched a six ton steam shovel take huge bites of earth. But he didn't reckon with the steam shovel operator. Dr. Transue watched amazed as the scoop carefully picked up his hat from the canal bottom and dropped it gently near his feet.

FEATHERED HAZARD

Spirit Lake, Ia. — Oscar Todd, spirit lake postal clerk, socked a drive on the second tee at a country club here. The ball smacked a chicken and killed it, but nobody could find the lethal sphere. Garfield Harker, the club's pro, took the chicken home. His wife dressed it. She found the golf ball inside, he said.

COSTLY FIRE

Philadelphia, (AP)—Called to a minor fire at a chemical plant, Battalion Chief John C. Cost, 55, was cut and bruised in an auto collision. His car, just 37 miles "old" was wrecked. His pumper from engine company 46 broke down when it reached the scene of the blaze. Meanwhile employes of the plant extinguished the fire.

PAGE DIOGENES

Chicago, (AP)—Honesty may be the best policy, but it's keeping Harold Freeman mighty busy. While employed by a Chicago fur company some time ago, he found a $100 bill in a coat and returned it to the owner. Two months ago he paid for a $150 bank draft, but received one for $250. He sent it back. Last week he exchanged $100 in small denomination notes at the same bank for a $100 bill. He discovered later the teller had given him a $1,000 bill. Wearily, he sent the $900 back.

NEW CROP

Anderson, S. C., (AP)—Eighty-four-year old D. C. Holland may not have to buy any coffee this winter. He has a crop of it in his garden. Holland, a retired farmer, planted a row just as an experiment and nine trees now are thriving.

STUMPER STUMPED

Tierra Amarilla, N. M., (AP)—Charles M. Barber, republican nominee for state school superintendent, knows the hazards of political campaigning. While on a stumping tour he fell into a six-foot pit on an unlighted street in this mountain village.

COME AGAIN

Austin, Minn., (AP)—The chicken thief was chicken-hearted and so farmer William Osche has his flock back, with interest. A few days ago a thief cleaned out Osche's entire poultry holdings. Then the other day, the flock was all back, plus two black and white hens that weren't there originally.

New Oxford

Phone New Oxford 21-R-3

New Oxford—William Gable, of West Chester State Teachers' college, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gable, Carlisle street.

The Ladies' auxiliary of the New Oxford fire company will hold a benefit party in the engine house Wednesday evening. The following committees have been named to arrange details for the affair: Awards, Mrs. William Herman, Mrs. Leo Ecker, Mrs. J. R. Hamm; refreshments, Mrs. Preston Smith, Mrs. James Small, Mrs. Roland Hoffman, Mrs. Clair Lookenbill, Mrs. H. B. Miller and Mrs. Leo Long.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Alwine returned Sunday after having spent a week touring the New England states. They also visited the World's fair.

At the Rally Day service, Sunday at the First Lutheran church, 217 were present. Prof. Leslie V. Stock, principal of the Biglerville high school, was the speaker. There was $229 raised for the building fund.

The Mite society of St. Paul's Reformed church will meet this evening, at the home of Mrs. S. J. Haverstick, Lincolnway east.

Clean stained aluminum pots and kettles by boiling cream of tartar water in them. For each 4 cups of water, add ½ teaspoon of cream of tartar. Boil gently and then wash well in warm water and soap suds.

Draft Questions and the Answers

By JACK STINNETT

Washington (AP) — (Questions arising from selective service are as thick as grasshoppers in a swarm. Following is further effort to answer some of them.)

Q. Suppose I refuse to answer the questions put to me by the registrar?

A. The registrars already have instructions how to handle you. Recalcitrants will be urged and argued with, but if they persist, witnesses will be called and the case referred to the United States district attorney. For willfully obstructing the draft, a man is subject to the same penalty as for willfully dodging the draft: not more than five years in the penitentiary, nor more than $10,000 fine.

Q. I am moving to another city the day after draft registration. What should I do?

A. Notify your local board immediately when you change address, no matter when it occurs after registration.

Q. What is the difference between the registrars and the local boards?

A. The registrars are merely the registration machinery (in most cases it will be the same as the election machinery) and after October 16 their task will be finished. The local boards are permanent, voluntary, unpaid groups of three or more men, with a paid clerk, presiding over an area of approximately 30,000 population. Attached to the boards, but not a part of them are the examining physicians and government appeal agents. It will be the duty of the board to classify all registrants and notify those men called into service.

* * *

Q. In our local board district there are many factory workers and there is no labor man on the board who has any understanding of labor problems. Is there anything we can do about it?

A. Yes. Appeal to your governor and ask him to appoint such a representative of labor to the board. Those in charge of selective service at national headquarters here are particularly eager to have these boards made up of men of high standing who are representative of the community they serve. In the case of appeal boards it is stipulated that the boards should include one member from labor, one from industry, a physician, a lawyer and where applicable, one member from agriculture.

Q. Is there any way I can find out now what are the physical requirements for men who will get into Class 1?

A. Not specifically, but roughly (and with a few minor changes) they are the same as those for the Army. For example, the Army accepts men only if they are five feet four or taller; selectees may be placed in Class 1 who are only five feet or taller.

* * *

Q. I would like to do my military service immediately. Can I enlist for one year?

A. Yes, the Army recently opened enlistments to men desiring to serve only one year and having served that year, you will have the same status as a man who has served under selective service—not again subject to call for military training in peacetime. If you enlist in the National Guard, now being called into training, you will be subject to membership in the guard for two years after your year of training, but only at the armory, during two weeks of summer encampment, or in the case of emergency for which the guard is called out.

Q. I am 19, have finished high school and would like to take my military training before I enter college. How can I do it?

A. You may enlist either in the National Guard being called into training or in the Army. Youths of 18 or over, with permission of their parents, are accepted for all branches of military service.

Four Main Classes

Every registrant must be placed in one of the four main classes, which follows:

Class I—Available for service.
Class II—Deferred because of occupational status.
Class III—Deferred because of dependents.
Class IV—Deferred specifically by law or because unfit for military service.

These four classes are further divided into the following subclasses:

Class I-A—Available; fit for general military service.
Class I-B—Available; fit only for limited military service.
Class I-C—Member of land or naval forces of the United States.
Class I-D—Student fit for general military service; available not later than July 1, 1941.
Class I-E—Student fit for limited military service; available not later than July 1, 1941.
Class II-A—Man necessary in his civilian activity.
Class III-A—Man with dependents.
Class IV-A—Man who has completed service.
Class IV-B—Official deferred by law.
Class IV-C—Non-declarant alien.
Class IV-D—Minister of religion or divinity student.
Class IV-E—Conscientious objector available only for civilian work of national importance.
Class IV-F—Physically, mentally or morally unfit.

Seek Uniform Policy

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—Selective service officials directed efforts today toward establishment of a uniform nation-wide policy in application of the broad, general rules governing deferment of men from compulsory military service for occupational reasons.

The rules, issued yesterday, conformed generally to advance reports that local draft boards would be instructed to be liberal in deferring both men with dependents and those with "necessary" jobs in occupations important to the national health, safety and interest.

For example:

Men married soon before or after draft registration day, October 16, will not be penalized, but will have the dependency of their wives judged on the same basis as other men. (In the world war, marriages after a certain date were not considered).

"Any reasonable doubts in connection with dependency," the regulations stated, "should be resolved in favor of deferment * * *"

Those who claim to be conscientious objectors need be examined on their claims only if they have not been deferred from service for other reasons.

A relief worker who has real dependents will not be taken from his job to serve in the Army. While local draft boards necessarily will bear the burden of deciding whether a man actually is "necessary" to his job, officials are working to bring about national uniformity in deferment policy.

Major Guiston Morgan, city manager of Austin, Texas, is cooperating with governmental, trade and educational groups who are distributing information on draft procedures. His efforts are to obtain uniform procedure by all groups interested in deferments.

Any registrant, his employer or his labor union may argue in behalf of his deferment for occupational reasons. The registrant may appear personally before the locall draft board, a practice not permitted in 1917.

In another effort to obtain uniformity, one or more Army or Navy officers have been appointed as state advisors on occupational deferments. By maintaining liason between the several states and national headquarters, they hope to minimize state-to-state differences in draft policy.

Farm Calendar

Timely Reminders for Adams County Farmers From State College Specialists

Soil in which flowering bulbs are to be grown needs well-rotted stable manure incorporated deeply when the beds are prepared. Ornamental horticulturists also suggest the use of a complete chemical fertilizer, such as 4-12-4 or 5-10-5 analysis. The rate of application is 2½ to 3 pounds per 100 square feet of planting area.

Prevent Soil Erosion

Contour strip farming is the principal erosion control practice demonstrated by the agricultural extension service in Pennsylvania. This includes contour planting of new orchards. Good rotations, sod waterways, cover crops, and forest tree plantings are emphasized as essentials in proper control.

Control Grain Weevils

Five recommendations are made by extension entomologists for the control of grain weevils. These are cleaning of barns, tightening of bins and granaries, early threshing, keeping rain out of mows, and fumigation.

Timely Pruning Suggested

When to prune apple trees for best results is answered in a new circular issued by the agricultural extension service of the Pennsylvania State College. It is called "Pruning Apple Trees in Pennsylvania," and may be obtained from the Agricultural Publications Office, State College, Pa.

Deep Litter Helps Poultry

Many poultrymen are using deep litter in their poultry houses, report poultry specialists. The deep litter keeps drier than shallow and insulates the floor.

A special program for turkey growers is scheduled for November 6 at the Pennsylvania State College.

An Evening Thought

He who sports compliments, unless he takes good aim, may miss his mark, and be wounded by the recoil of his own weapon.—Haliburton.

OUT OF THE PAST

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Miscellany: The York fair is this week.

This morning as Harry J. Stine was splitting kindling, a piece flew up and struck him in the left eye, bursting the ball of the eye. Mr. S. started for Baltimore to consult specialists.

Dr. Gettier's valuable family horse died of colic at Fairfield, last evening.

David Stevens of this place has had his pension increased from six to ten dollars a month.

Last week Squire Hammers shot at 80 yards, a large hawk measuring 4 ft. 6 inches from tip to tip of wings. The hawk had in its claws a full grown rooster which was in the same condition that the democratic rooster is after the republican eagle is done with him. The Squire also shot a large fox squirrel which cleaned 2 lbs. It is the largest on record.

Last week Levi Reinecker at the Star Roller Mill shot 3 wild ducks at one shot.

Miss Olof Krarer, the Esquimaux lady who will deliver her lecture in Christ Lutheran church on Oct. 28th, is only 40 inches high and is 31 years old. Her lecture is on "Greenland, or Life in the Frozen North," and is said to be intensely interesting. At the close of each lecture Miss Krarer appears in the native Esquimaux costume.

David Warren, of this place, lost a valuable cow by death, Sunday night.

* * *

Marriages: Hardman—Spangler — Sept. 30, in this place, by Edw. J. Cox, Esq., James L. Hardman to Miss Lucinda Spangler, both of Liberty township.

Secrist—Stock — Oct. 1st, at the residence of the bride's parents in Hanover, by Rev. Daniel Stock, assisted by Rev. Charles M. Stock, Arthur Howard Secrist, of Homestead, Pa., to Miss Ida M. Stock.

* * *

The Lutheran Synod: The West Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran church will convene in St. Mark's church, Hanover, tomorrow evening, the synodical sermon being preached by the president, Rev. A. G. Fastnacht, of York.

The following delegates from this county will be present:

Revs. E. Breidenbaugh, Joel Swartz, E. J. Wolf, H. L. Baugher, Peter Sheeder, H. G. Buehler and Wm. G. Gettle and Prof. E. S. Breidenbaugh, Messrs J. M. Gaughy, Leander Goetz and Frank D. Garland, of this place; Revs. C. F. Gephart, of Idaville; W. J. D. Scherer, of Fairfield, D. R. Becker and W. C. Wire, of Littlestown and H. M. Heilman, of Mt. Joy.

* * *

Personal Mention: Rev. Albert Bell has received a call from the Laytown (Lutheran) charge, about five miles north of Columbia, Lancaster county, and will enter on his duties on the 12th inst.

Miss Sophie Sadtler, of Baltimore, spent Sunday with Miss Mary McKnight.

Miss Fonce White, of Liberty township, and Miss Ross, of Pittsburgh, visited Miss McIlhenny, of Straban township, on Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Carrie Crawford, of Baltimore, is visiting her aunts, the Misses Crawford, on Carlisle street.

Thaddeus S. Clarkson has been appointed as postmaster at Omaha, Nebraska. He is a native of Gettysburg and a son of the late Michael C. Clarkson, of this place.

Paul Hersh and wife, of Omaha, Nebraska, are on a short visit east.

Miss S. A. Cressler accompanied by her nephew, Joseph S. Spapeley, is now visiting the eastern cities.

Policeman Robert Rupp is visiting his sister, Mrs. Berger at Richford, N. Y. His mother will accompany him on the return.

The Rev. M. H. Valentine, of Bedford, occupied the pulpit of St. James church on Sunday evening.

Mrs. W. T. King started today for Chicago to visit her daughter, Mrs. Baltzer Snyder.

H. T. Weaver, buyer for G. W. Weaver and Son, left yesterday to spend a week in the eastern cities to add to their already large stock of winter goods all of which, they tell us, have been bought under conditions making them especially cheap. Look out for new ideas as well as new goods.

Mrs. Jesse M. Walter left this morning for Annapolis to visit her sister.

Mrs. H. L. Baugher, Mrs. H. B. Nixon and Miss Elizabeth Buehler went to York this morning.

* * *

Football Games: The college football team has been organized with the following members: Albert, fullback; Baum, quarterback; R. B. Wolf and Filbert, halfbacks; Meinhart, Flickinger, Nicholas, Dalrymple, Boyer, Gensimer and Pohlman on the rush line. We understand a game has been arranged with the Millersville State Normal school for Saturday the 18th, and with Swarthmore the following Friday. Only hard practice will enable the team to make a fair showing against these elevens, and an effort should be made to secure the heaviest men possible for the rush line.

* * *

Oyster Supper at Round Top Park, Friday evening, Oct. 10th, by the Mt. Zion U. B. Mite society. Everybody invited. If it should rain on above day, it will be held on Oct. 11.

* * *

Sales: The George Sheaffer property along the Cumberland county line, has been purchased by Calvin Coulson at $1,550; 46 acres and buildings.

Peter Mackley has purchased the farm of Annie L. Wilson in Cumberland township, containing a little more than sixteen acres at private sale.

* * *

Fairfield Items: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Donaldson celebrated their golden wedding on Monday of last week. Some of the neighbors and friends were present and had a very pleasant time.

John S. Myers has purchased a building lot on the avenue from H. M. Landis and will put up a house this fall.

G. W. Wortz is also building a house on the lot reserved from the property sold to Henry Welty.

Dr. Gettier and family, of Gettysburg, visited friends at this place over Sunday. They were the guests of Dr. A. P. Beaver and J. J. Reindollar.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE "NOBLE PLEASURE OF PRAISING"

I KNOW of no finer way to make this a better place in which to live than to praise those who do worthy things. Both the giver and receiver are blessed beyond words.

There is a vast difference between flattery and honest praise. The former disgusts, the latter lifts the spirit like light turned on in a darkened room.

Honest praise never hurt anyone. It makes a better servant, employee, or friend. Without it, many a servant, employee and friend has been lost to the one most needing his service. We would all shrivel in usefulness and importance, both to ourselves and the world about us, without this praise given to us when deserved.

Most critics feel it more their duty to find fault than to praise. Many of them even become blind to all praise. A few years ago a play was started in a New York theatre that every critic saw fit to condemn. Fortunately, the people who saw it liked it, told their friends about it—and the result was the longest run in the history of the theatre at that time. It was clean, with plenty of laughs in it, and good entertainment. A play of such nature deserves praise. They are all too few.

A great and notable English editor—the late Sir W. Robertson Nicoll—wrote in one of his books that he never missed the opportunity to praise a young author, so long as he showed ability and wrote sincerely. He didn't believe in discouraging one because he hadn't become famous. Praise at the right time has helped to make many a man or woman, not only famous, but happily successful, which is more permanent.

Many a person has risen to great heights encouraged by a kind word of praise early in life. To give praise is the simplest service anyone can give—and it costs nothing but the effort to give it. And how many of us need it—every day of our lives!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The City of the Mind."

The Literary Guidepost

By John Selby

"AUDUBON'S AMERICA," edited by Donald Culross Peattie: (Houghton Mifflin: $6).

JOHN JAMES AUDUBON, writes Donald Culross Peattie in his introduction to the volume of Audubon's writings published today as "Audubon's America," had a "genius for the art of living."

"He lived with zest for the adventure, and with personal ardors," Peattie says. "He savored everything, even the unsavory. He saw almost everything, from 1803 to 1849, from Florida to Labrador, from New York City to Fort Union on the borders of Montana. . . . He explored Maine and South Carolina, Texas and Florida. He knew all types; he was the friend of Daniel Boone and Daniel Webster."

And because Audubon happened to be the greatest of practical ornithologists and a painter of birds beyond compare, his numerous other abilities have been obscured. A good many do not even know that he painted animals as well as birds and left a great many paintings of this class which are irreplaceable. More do not know of his writings, or if they know anything, are familiar only with his descriptions of wild life.

The fact is, as Mr. Peattie proves in his magnificently made and edited book, Audubon was an accurate observer of all life, human as well as wild. He did not write as neat and finicking a prose as Thoreau, but whereas Thoreau saw the world through the wrong end of the telescope and made it look like Walden Pond, Audubon applied his eye to the business end of the telescope and saw everything.

Audubon's diaries are as good a source of information on the first half of the 19th century in America as exists anywhere, and their detail is something to marvel at. He wrote more than diaries, too.

Mr. Peattie has chosen remarkably well from Audubon's product and introduced the long excerpts with an excellent biography in which the whole undertaking is set in true perspective. There also are a few first-class illustrations in color, all from Audubon's work — there is even a landscape, a view of Natchez which is still hanging in one of the old Natchez houses.

Mr. Peattie has not tried to show the genius of his subject as a painter, but as a writer; the description of Natchez quoted in the text is a far better indication of what that town was in the early years of the last century than is the landscape.

The Road to Snani Lun

By RITA MOHLER HANSON

YESTERDAY: Adventurous Lynn Britton has accepted an invitation to visit a great Mongolian prince, but now that American-educated Temu Darin is escorting her to the prince she finds that she is virtually a prisoner, that her half-brother Dick has disappeared, and that there is faint chance the clues she has taken pains to leave behind will be discovered.

Chapter Ten

BANDITS AHEAD

Temu ordered Bula to stop and went back to talk with the other chauffeurs and gunners. Bula hauled out his knitting from the front of his cloak and went to work. The Frenchman stepped out and buried his head under the hood of the car. When Temu returned he carried on a low-voiced conversation with Bula and then spoke a few words to the mechanic in French.

From their talk, Lynn gathered that there was a rumor of a band of communist outlaws lying in ambush somewhere ahead waiting for the rich cargo being brought across the plains for the Prince of Shani Lun. The storm was delaying the caravan, so they would be late in reaching their destination.

Rather than keep back to the speed of the heavily laden trucks, Temu decided the limousine should hasten on and deliver Lynn to the care of the Prince's aunt waiting for them with the camel caravan at the edge of the dunes.

The car started again and soon passed beyond the sight of the trucks. The plain was lonely and desolate, only occasionally relieved by a mud-walled Chinese farm, or an approaching camel caravan with its mounted guard.

Near one water hole they came upon a farmhouse in ruins, it having been looted by robbers a short time before. Soldiers from the nearest garrison had caught one of the maurauders, and as a grisly warning, had left his head hanging from a pole by a cord run through an ear.

Lynn shuddered. What people! What a country!

"Similar to England in the Middle Ages, isn't it?" Temu remarked before she could speak, which somewhat deflated her indignation.

Presently, they ran into rougher country, boulder-strewn and gashed by deeper cuts and gullies which compelled them to drive more slowly. They stopped at the entrance to one canyon and a man went ahead to reconnoitre.

While waiting for him to return, Temu lifted a flap on the back of the front seat, and Lynn saw that the place was fitted with a collection of small arms and other warlike supplies. He broke out extra cartridge belts for the machine guns and loaded an army rifle for his own use. Then he looked at Lynn and smiled.

"I doubt if we'll have occasion to use them."

Lynn was not unfamiliar with firearms. She had riddled many a clay pigeon. But, somehow, this was different.

"I hope you're right," she said, and succeeded with an effort in keeping her teeth from chattering.

They took a chance on a second canyon and descended to a flat, gravel-strewn valley, to climb again to a high divide. The place seemed destitute of animal life, human inhabitant, or traveler. They crossed unmolested, swung into the upgrade ruts, and were taking the last long steep pitch to the comparative level of the top, when a sniper on the cliff above opened fire.

Lynn started at the crack of the rifle. She saw the gunner on Temu's side of the car clump down in straps. Temu gave sharp orders to the driver and the car continued to labor upward in low gear.

Murder on Horseback

The next instant a band of horsemen appeared, blocking the road at the top, and began firing. Temu stepped out on the running board and crouched over the gunner's body. He opened fire with his machine gun as quickly as the man on the far side could unlimber.

Lynn heard the ping of lead against bullet-proof glass as the car continued its steady climb. The machine guns drummed; men shouted; horses screamed.

In all this horror and confusion something drew the girl's gaze to the side of the road. She saw a brigand rise from the ground and swing an old matchlock on a tripod. A wild excitement rose in her. As if impelled by the spirit of her Indian-fighting ancestors, she knelt and lifted Temu's rifle to her shoulder.

The bullet went wild, yet close enough to frighten the man into throwing himself to the ground, crashing his gun in the process. She fired once more and another time and then a fourth. When she came to herself they had reached the crown of the hill and halted. The outlaws were escaping into defiles beyond.

Temu Darin stood looking at her, the strangest, most incredulous expression on his face. It was a moment before he could speak, then he asked:

"Are you all right?"

She noticed blood running down his arm across his hand.

"I'm fine," she answered—and fainted, thus emulating in a few moments both her pioneer and her Victorian grandmother.

When consciousness returned Lynn was lying on a robe beside a sandstone boulder with Temu Darin sponging her forehead and temples with a wet handkerchief. She pushed his hand away and sat up.

"Better now?" he asked, offering her a drink of water from a brass bowl.

She drank, then brushed a wrist across her eyes and looked hastily at his hand on which she had seen the blood. No trace was visible. She drew back the cuff of his coat sleeve hardly knowing what she did.

"Only a scratch on the upper arm," he said in answer to her quest. He reached out as if to pat her hand then drew back.

"How about the gunner?" she asked, resting her head against the boulder.

He hesitated for a moment. "Dear, poor fellow. Everything will be taken care of. I'm sorry you had to be let in on this."

Lynn looked around; there was no sign of carnage in sight. Temu's men were working over the automobile engine. She felt an odd shame and bewilderment about her part in the affair, still shaken by the memory of the urge that had possessed her to kill a man.

Still, it was not as a man that she had regarded him, but as a menace to Temu Darin's life. And the idea that Temu Darin's life should seem dear to her was likewise inexplicable. She inquired about the man she had shot at.

"He got away. I don't believe you had any luck."

"Thank heaven!" She pressed her handkerchief to her lips and rested a bit.

"Were you trying to save my life when you joined the battle?" Temu asked. If there was amusement in his voice, there was also gentleness.

She straightened and stared at him, her eyes hostile and defiant. He had asked the question she had been asking herself. Now the answer came to her.

"I had to choose between bandits."

"And so you chose me," he said whimsically, refusing to take offense.

"You speak English; I don't know about the other fellow."

He laughed amusedly. "I have other virtues, too, that I hope you will learn in time. I wonder if you know that in China the saving of a man's life puts one under obligations to him. You have become responsible for my welfare." Somehow, this gentle teasing quieted her nerves.

When he opened a lunch basket before her she turned pale at the thought of food.

"The kitten is hungry," he said.

Lynn took a chicken sandwich and fed the little animal flakes of meat, and presently found that she was eating a few morsels herself. As he ate his own lunch, Temu poured her a bowl of tea from a vacuum bottle.

They were camped on an eminence that must command a view of all northern China, it seemed to Lynn, if one had the eyes to scan it. She lifted a pair of fieldglasses lying near. Below them spread a great plain sloping down to the Yellow River, its banks lined with farms and villages and strips of waste land. To the east, huddled the walled town of Pai Shu, and a bit beyond, she knew, lay the lama temple-monastery where her misfortunes had begun.

"Somewhere out there in the haze, she thought, lies Peiping—with Americans and Europeans walking the streets free and unmolested. If they knew my plight! Dick—what is he doing at this minute—what is he thinking—what is he feeling?" Her mind wandered on to the little slave maid following them somewhere in one of the trucks.

"Do you know how it happened that Little Bamboo was sold to the Princess Mother?" she asked Temu Darin.

He pondered a moment, setting down his dish of tea.

"The girl's father sold her during a famine in China, I presume. That's the way it usually is. If I remember correctly, she was bought by agents for the Princess in Lensuh."

Lynn spoke sadly. "I feel as if Dick had sold me."

Temu's face darkened with unexpected color.

The girl stared, surprised. Suddenly galvanized, she crouched before him. "Have I guessed the truth?" she demanded.

"Of course not," he disclaimed. "The Prince would not be a party to such a deal. He does not desire a slave. You are free?" and combatting the disbelief in her eyes, he repeated, "You are free, I tell you. You'll come nearer being worshipped in Shani Lun than being enslaved. You're a goddess to the people."

"I am not a goddess to the Prince and his family," she retorted.

"You are held in very high esteem by everyone. There is nothing more I can say. You must wait and prove my words."

She sank back and he began repacking the elaborate English lunch basket. Presently, the Frenchman reported that the car was ready.

"Can you walk to the car?" Temu asked.

Lynn rose, and though her knees were trembling, walked to the car unassisted.

UNITED STATES RESUMES TALKS WITH RUSSIA

Aid to China May Be Topic of Conversations Soon

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—A renewal of American talks with Soviet Russia revived conjecture today on the possibility that common concern over Far Eastern developments might establish a basis for active collaboration by Washington, Moscow and London.

New conversations here appeared to be aimed first at removal of what are considered relatively minor points of friction between the United States and Russia.

Success in these efforts, diplomatic sources said, might lead to discussion of more far-reaching questions of policy, possibly starting with "aid to China," to which the United States, Russia and Great Britain have all contributed.

The talks here were begun last July by Undersecretary of State Welles and Constantine Oumansky, Soviet ambassador, prior to renewal of the annual American-Soviet trade agreement. They were continued in what Welles described as a friendly and constructive manner to determine whether relations generally might be improved.

In early August, however, they were suddenly broken off and it was reported substantial differences barred progress.

After most State department officials had gone home yesterday, Oumansky arrived and was ushered in to see Welles. They talked for half an hour. The ambassador would say nothing but State department officials said he had come to resume the talks begun during the summer, indicating that others were planned.

Oumansky's visit came at the end of a day of intense diplomatic activity centering on the Far East and American and British steps to maintain their positions in an area in which Japan was assigned the dominating role by the Tokyo-Berlin-Rome alliance.

Mack, the widow, $250,000 in cash, the family home at McKeesport and other personalty, and income from a large remaning part of the estate. Proceeds from sale of the stock and any cash dividends are to be distributed as follows: 45 per cent to the Mack foundation; 20 per cent each to the endowment funds of Westminster college, New Wilmington, Pa., and the Bob Jones college, Cleveland, Tenn.; 15 per cent to the southwestern Presbyterian sanatorium, Albuquerque, N. Mex.

ALL FOR A HAT

Johnstown, Pa. (AP)—Look what happened when a woman's hat blew off:

A truck driver stopped to avoid running over it.

A street car bumped the truck.

The trolley car caught fire.

Traffic was held up half an hour.

Catholics Plan Forum Series of Six Lectures

The Catholic Forum of Harrisburg laid plans for its 1940-41 season Monday night when seventy-five parish leaders from churches in the Harrisburg area met at dinner at the Plaza hotel in Harrisubrg.

Albert Schmidt, Forum chairman, announced that the lecture series to be presented in the Forum of the State Education building during the fall and winter months has been extended to six speakers this year, while the prices of the tickets have been reduced. He explained that the Forum is operated at cost and functions only as a public service in the community.

Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, whose appearance here last year brought many requests for his return, will again open the series on November 6. As the radio orator on the Catholic Hour, Monsignor Sheen has a huge Catholic as well as non-Catholic following. In addition to his radio work, he is associate professor of the philosophy of religion at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C. The subject of his address will be "Sparks From the Anvil of War."

The second lecture will be presented on December 9 when the speaker will be Dr. Ross Hoffman, formerly of Harrisburg, and dean of the graduate school of Fordham university, New York. His subject will be "Glimpses From an Historical Lighthouse."

On January 20, Frank Sheed, London publisher, will again come to Harrisburg. The return of Mr. Sheed, who appeared here last season, was also widely requested. This year he will speak on "The Catholic Intellectual Revival."

Dr. Clarence Manion, professor of constitutional law at Notre Dame university, will speak on "God and the Government" on February 10, and on March 10 the Forum will present its first woman speaker. She is Maisie Ward, in private life Mrs. Frank Sheed, another member of the publishing firm of Sheed and Ward. She will have as her subject, "The World We Are Living In."

The last lecture of the season will be presented on April 12 when the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, Washington, will speak on "The Position of the United States in World Affairs." Father Walsh is regent of the School of Foreign Service which he founded at Georgetown university, and has served for many years as advisor to various embassies located in Washington.

Tickets for the series are being placed on sale in all of the parishes of the community, Mr. Schmidt announced.

24 MILLIONS FOR STATE

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—Pennsylvania received $24,820,300 in federal grants during the last fiscal year to aid in financing various social security programs, the social security board has reported. Grants to the state during the preceding fiscal year amounted to $22,221,600.

The brink of Niagara Falls is moving back about 2½ feet a year.

Slaughter steers were practically all straight grassers that graded common and mediums and just a few low good grades. Sales of steers scaling largely from around 1,300 pounds downward were mostly from $6—9.25 and up to $9.50 was paid for good grade 1,278-pound average. Small lot of good heifers and young cows mixed brought $9. Other heifers were principally kinds to sell from $8 down. Most fat cows cleared at $5.25—6.50 and the canners and cutters from $3.50—5. A sizable percentage of the steer supply comprised common and medium grades of stockers and feeders that brought from $6—8. Practical top on sausage bulls was $7.

CALVES—Steady rates were paid for vealers on the week's opening trading session. Good and choice grades brought $11—11.50, commond and medium grades largely $8.50—10.50 and light culls sold down to $7 or below.

HOGS—Mostly steady outlet was encountered in hog sales on the week's opening session, except that the 220-240-pound butchers ruled 10c. higher than close last week. Practical top held at $7; good and choice grades of 180-240-pound butchers brought $6.75—7; 160-180 pounds, $6.55—6.80; 250-300 pounds and 150-160 pounds, $6.45—6.70; 140-150 pounds, $6.10—6.35; 130-140 pounds, $5.90—6.10; 120-130 pounds, $5.65—5.90; packing sows mostly $5.25—5.75. Above prices based on grain-fed hogs.

SHEEP—Fully steady prices were paid for fat lambs yesterday. Good and choice grades of ewes and wethers went mainly at $9.75—10; fat buck lambs, $1 less. Common and medium grades cleared mostly at $7—9 and light culls sold down to $5. Odd head of thin and emaciated slaughter ewes brought $1.50—3, fat kinds lacking.

Found guilty of manslaughter in the death of Jeanette K. Baugher, aged 5, in an automobile accident two miles east of Emmitsburg on August 30, William G. McNair, Taneytown, Maryland, was sentenced to four years in the Maryland penitentiary, Friday. The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Baugher, Waynesboro. McNair is the son of Scott McNair, Liberty township.

IT'S AN ILL WIND, ETC.

Williamsport, Pa. (AP) — Maybe it's a good thing, after all, for Mrs. Marguerite Weeley that a truck smashed her front porch. The property was surveyed in adjustment of the case, with the result that Mrs. Sweeley discovered that for 18 years she has been paying taxes on six feet of land that weren't hers. She has asked council for a refund.

Where Uptown Meets Downtown and Go Lowdown

This is the spot where both sides of the railroad tracks meet and become one in a wild and hectic night of merriment. Our international reputation for the most unusual whoopee anywhere has been honestly earned and vouched for by big and little people in all walks of life. Come down yourself and find the real answer to it all. It can be told in one word, "FUN," and we know how to make it possible. No cover. Open 6:00 p. m. to 2:00 a. m., nightly, including Sundays.

ENGLAND WILL RE-OPEN BURMA ROAD ON OCT. 17

Churchill Gives Warning to Japan Over Military Pact

pacity of Germany and that is the only object we shall pursue."

"A month has passed since Herr Hitler turned his rage and malice on the civilian population of our great cities and particularly on London," he continued.

"Hitler declared in his speech on September 4 that he would raze our cities to the ground and since then he has been trying to carry out his fell purpose. Naturally, the first question is to what extent the full strength of the German air froce has been employed.

"Certainly there has been continued falling off in the last week or ten days. Since the heavy raidings began we have had a steady decline of casualties and damage to so-called vulnerable points * * * "I should not like to say we have the measure of their power, but we feel more confident now than we have ever been before."

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Britain's decision to re-open the Burma road for the passage of war supplies to China would seem to mean that England finally has decided to call for a show-down with Japan in the far east.

This involves the whole question of Japan's increasingly aggressive policy which is calculated to break the influence of the western powers in eastern Asia and establish Japanese hegemony over this vast area.

The Burma road controversy is merely one of a long chain of clashes between Britain and Japan. This road, which was China's main route for supplies essential to the conduct of war against Japan, was closed on July 17 for three months, on the insistence of Tokyo but with the understanding that Nippon would undertake to make peace with China. The Washington state department at that time announced its opposition to the closing of such trade arteries.

Japan's recent adhesion to the Berlin-Rome axis obviously has forced Britain to the conclusion that it must either make a stand now or be pushed out of the Orient. That is the straw which appears to have broken the camel's bank.

The resulting position obviously is grave. I should say that the chief danger lies not in an immediate upheaval over the re-opening of the Burma road (for that had been expected at the expiration of the three month period) but in the probability that the Japanese will take strong military action to prevent the passage of supplies. This might result in war between Britain and Japan. The seriousness of the situation is indicated in the report that American consulates throughout Japan and other affected areas have been ordered to advise American citizens to return home.

Japs Land Troops

The Japanese navy was reported to have landed troops on Liu Kung island off Shantung peninsula — summer base of the British navy's China squadron. Only a short time ago, the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek granted Britain renewal of a 10-year lease on the disputed island, but the Japanese-controlled Nanking regime declared the lease terminated.

In Washington, a renewal of talks between Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Russian Ambassador Constantine Oumansky stirred speculation of active collaboration by Washington, Moscow and London in the Far East crisis.

Conferences between Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Admiral James O. Richardson, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, who flew in from the west coast yesterday, also aroused conjecture.

Sitting in on the conferences with Secretary Knox and Admiral Richardson was Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired, hard-fisted former commander of the American Asiatic fleet, who has urged greater economic pressure on Japan, more aid to China, and other measures to subdue Japan's empire-expansion ambitions.

Signs increased that Russia has not taken kindly to the new Japanese partnership with Germany and Italy. In London, it was reported that Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador to Moscow, has again seen Russian Premier Molotoff in a meeting which coincided with the resumption of American-Soviet diplomatic talks.

Amid these ominous developments in the Far East, German warplanes in great numbers unleashed one of the most furious daylight assaults of the war on London.

Striking back in retaliation for the severest aerial bombardment Berlin has undergone — a 4-hour, 42-minute attack by RAF bombers — the nazi raiders caught London during the morning rush hours and dropped screaming salvos of bombs as crowds dashed for cover.

The toll of dead and wounded was apparently high.

100 Bombs Fall in Berlin

But while terrible new chaos fell on London, the British air ministry reported waves of R.A.F. bombers gave the Germans—particularly in Berlin—a night of unprecedented death and destruction from the skies.

The air ministry said that 100 big bombs were exploded on three major power stations in Berlin, and that British airmen set fire to part of Berlin's great Tempelhof airdrome and attacked the Fokker aircraft works at Amsterdam, in German-occupied Holland.

Other R.A.F. bomb assaults fell on the German naval works at Wilhelmshaven, air fields, freight yards and at least ten points along the nazi-held "invasion" coast, as well as on German long-range gun emplacements at Cap Gris Nez, France.

Balkans Tense

Meanwhile, the situation in the Balkans was hourly growing more tense, following reports that both German and Italian troops have marched into Rumania with undisclosed motives.

After a welter of denials, contradictions and veiled hints, authorized nazis in Berlin today acknowledged that German troops "are about to leave" for Rumania "to act both as a living example to the Rumanian army and to give the Rumanian people absolute assurance of security . . ."

Simultaneously, Sir Reginald Hoare, British ambassador to Rumania, asked the pro-nazi Rumanian government to "elucidate the situation arising out of the apparent intention to garrison German troops at strategic places in Rumania."

Russia maintained a spinx-like silence, but it was not expected that the Kremlin would welcome outright German occupation of Rumania—particularly if, as reported, Germany contemplates any move toward Turkey or the strategic Dardenelles.

British circles in Bucharest said a rupture of Anglo-Rumania relations might follow an unsatisfactory reply to Sir Reginald Hoare's query to the Rumanian government.
